JAPANESE TRICKERY.

MEXICO CITY is fast filling with monkey-faced Japs from a warship on the Pacific coast. They are members of the crew, although they do not wear uniforms, and are there for no good purpose. The mere fact that these fighting men appear at the capital of a country bordering on war with the United States is significant of the true sentiment of the Japanese people, and indicates where they will be found should it come to an open rupture between the United States and Mexico.

The treachery of Japan has been suspected for some time and the war and navy departments at Washington have not been caught napping by this latest declaration of amity between the mikado and Huerta. The moment Mr. O'Shaughnessy reported the presence of the little brown men in Mexico City the order went forth for American marines to be rushed from the isthmus, where they have been held ostensibly as a guard, to join the squadron of heavy guns floating in the vicinity of Vera Cruz. On this order over 600 marines sailed within a few hours. On the Pacific coast the wires got busy and a transport will leave San Diego this week with enough blue-jackets to fill the complement of every vessel sailing under the American flag and recruit the fighting force to war strength. If Japan wishes to throw down the gauntlet the United States is ready to take it up and make a real issue that will remind the pugnacious Orientals that the fighting stamina of the boys under the Stars and Stripes has not changed since the days when Admiral Perry introduced the ensign to the antipodes.

The conduct of Japan has always been one of perfidy and deceit and there is little room to doubt the truth of every word that has been printed about that nation colonizing Mexico with the veterans of the Russo-Japanese war under the guise of farmers. If the Japanese want fight, let them drop their protestations of friendship and come out as an open ally of Huerta, who, apparently, has pinned his faith to them as a last forlorn hope. Japan dare not challenge the United States to combat or invite open hostilities, and it is only through underhanded, insidious methods that the wily Nipponese can hope to cope with Uncle Sam. If he wants a fight, the navy is prepared to give him a showing that will settle all doubts as to the boasted superiority of the new race which aspires to fill the western continent with yellow men.

SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW.

THE much-derided Sherman anti-trust law is making good, as evidenced by the conduct of the leading corporations and their interlocking directorates. One after another has thrown up the sponge and all frankly avow a desire to be good and do as they were ordered to do by the administration of President Taft. They find they have run up against a bunch of buzz saws that will tear them to pieces unless they throw up their hands and toe the mark. The confession of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, following the action of the Morgan syndicate, takes the entire question out of the realm of probability.

The successful consummation of the negotiations between Attorney General McReynolds and President Howard Elliott of the New Haven road for a reorganization of the road without a suit in equity under the Sherman act will not necessarily preclude the bringing of criminal suits against those directors and other officials who were responsible for the policy of the New Haven under former President Mellen's administration.

Mr. McReynolds regards the criminal phases of the alleged offenses which have been charged against the former officials of the New Haven as a problem apart from that of procuring the reorganization of the road so as to re-establish a condition of competition among the common carriers of New England. He proposes to deal with each separately and throughout the negotiations with President Elliott, which began back in October, he and his assistants have gone forward with the consideration of the former as well as the latter problem.

Los Angeles real estate boomers are reaping the whirlwind of canalizing climate for too much expectation, and unless the rail roads can be induced to stop their advertising of the southern country the 35,000 idle men and women of Los Angeles will be doubled. However, this would be a handy bunch to have close to the border in the event of war with Mexico. Recruiting officers would find abundant material eager to join the army or navy just for a chance to get three square meals a day.

Chicago had street lights burning at noon ten days out of twelve and the citizens are not complaining of the weather. It is said that in Pittsburgh last winter a company bored a sixty-foot tunnel ninety feet before they found they were in the clear.

Dickerson and Newlands are trying to bury the hatchet, but the infernal old thing keeps coming back to the surface. It goes against the grain to settle deep-seated grudges.

California is advertising a boom in the citrus belt and at the same time warning workers to remain away from the souphouse belt.
